

Flea Market Policy

Almelund Threshing Company has ample room in the flea market and tries to accommodate the vendors that pay for a vending spot by making sure that they will have a fair chance to display and sell their items.

When an exhibitor has 10% or more of their display that is actively advertising the items for sale, they will have to move to the flea market and pay for the vending space with the rest of the vendors.

Exhibitors not wanting to comply with this policy will be asked to leave or stop selling and just display their items.
